A Day in the Life of a Midwifery Student

7:00 AM My alarm went off and I was still in my own bed. Our client at 41 weeks having contractions all day yesterday still did not call? Or did I miss the birth?!? Okay, where's my phone?! No, here it is. I didn't miss it. No call.

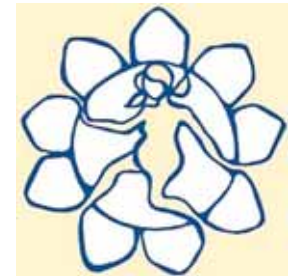

8:30 AM A free morning! I am so thankful when life works out this way. I am in two apprenticeships, but even so I am not always that busy and that's the way I like it. Sleeping and gardening are essential to my life, so I make sure I get to do both every now and then.

10:00 AM Out the door to go to my nanny job and I get a call from my doula client. She's starting to have contractions, 8-10 minutes apart. It's her first baby, so I am not too concerned. She could be doing that for days, right?

12:00 PM Lunch for the kids. Screaming at the table. Just for fun. Do I try to make them shut up? Will that squelch their little spirits? I let them scream. Until my midwifery preceptor calls. Our client's contractions are picking up. She wants me to stop by on my way to class that afternoon. I decide it will be okay if I am a little late to class. I haven't missed any yet. Should be fine.

2:00 PM Quiet time for the kids. I can get some reading done for class, in between bringing them books, water, and puzzles, and reminding them they are supposed to stay on their respective couches. ("Quiet time" is completely inappropriate for what this time sounds like to me. Maybe we should call it "less noisy relative to the constant screaming that goes on at lunch time.")

5:15 PM Check in with this client and my doula client calls again. Her water just broke! "I'll call you back."

6:00 PM Check in on my client. I get to do my first vaginal exam! And I found the cervix! Oops, I forgot to feel for the baby's head. Next time.

7:00 PM In class. Called doula client and they are heading to the hospital and will check in when they get there. My preceptor or texts, they are at the birth. Come when I can.

7:30 PM Leave class early to go to the birth. (I learned that you cannot miss too much class even for births, even though you are in midwifery school. Class comes first if you are near missing 25%. Those credits are just way too expensive. Go to class!)

9:13 PM Baby born! It's a girl! (meanwhile my phone is buzzing...doula client...) I hang around for the placenta, then rush off to the hospital.

12:00 AM Doula client is 6cm when she got here and has dilated to 9cm already!

2:05 AM Crowning...episiotomy...Baby born! Another girl.

4:00 AM Wow! She's exhausted, I'm exhausted. Baby is doing well. I'm heading home. First prenatal is not until noon tomorrow. Thank you, universe, for that.

Maura Jansen is an extension student. She works as a nanny, a postpartum doula at a birth center, a labor doula, and has clinical training in two relatively slow homebirth practices. Not every day is like this day, but plenty are.

New Teaching and Staff Additions

Melissa Cole, IBCLC, RLC is a registered, board certified lactation consultant who has been offering breastfeeding support since 2002. Through her work in private practice with Luna Lactation, Melissa believes it is a great honor to support families as they work towards their breastfeeding goals. She is a long-time La Leche League Leader and is also active with several lactation and health care professional associations. She teaches Advanced Breastfeeding Skills for the Associates in Lactation Consultation program. Melissa, her husband, Bryon and their three children enjoy living in the beautiful Pacific Northwest.

Amari Fauna recently joined Birthingway as the new Operations Coordinator. She comes from many years of working in community counseling and HIV prevention and hospice care. She recently accepted a Basic Rights Oregon "Equality Champion" award in trans justice and has an active interest in permaculture design and sustainability. She is exhilarated by Birthingway's systematic approach to NVC in the workplace. Welcome Amari!

Babies!

Faculty member, Adeline Kell, is excited to announce the her big news: baby Hazel Azalia was born on July 26 on their back porch, weighing in at 8 pounds 6oz!

Birthingway graduate, Melissa Cole Curry, welcomed a baby girl, Sophia Clementine, born at home into her papa's hands at 4:12pm on April 3rd, 2011 after a very reasonable 11 hour labor. Melissa writes, "We were overjoyed by her arrival, which broke all of my midwife biases (born a week early, during the daytime, and after a relatively short first time labor!) She weighed 7lbs. 7 oz, was 21 and a half inches long, and is mighty cute."

Third year student, Colleen Schafer, welcomed Abigail Eileen Schafer, who was born at home on September 11, 2011 weighing 9lbs 4oz. She was caught by her daddy Jack and midwife and Birthingway faculty member Heather Hack-Sullivan. A photo of Abigail is below.

Midwifery Clinical Training

Extension student, Danielle Kitt, is working with Joy Jech at Andaluz. Jacqueline Lynch, an extension student, is working with Augustine Colebrook in Medford, Oregon. Melissa Maureen, an extension year student, is working with Cynthia Luxford. Third year student, Angela Beach, is working with Kate Howe at Andaluz. Melissa Wiseman is working with Jesica Dolin at Andaluz. Second year student, Chelsea Campbell-Martin, is working with Melissa Gordon-Magnus at Alma. Third year student, Divya Za, is working with Celeste Kersey. Extension student, Micaela Schulten, is working with Pamela Echeverio.

Lactation Clinical Training

First year, Associates in Lactation students, Lisa Keres, Anne Tegtmeier and Catherine Shelton are working with our lactation preceptors to provide care to clients at our FREE Breastfeeding Center. Congratulations on your great work!

Specialized and Lactation Program News

Labor Doula Program

Our Labor Doula Workshops continue to thrive! Summer and fall workshops were full of women excited to support families during their pregnancy and birth.

Our program is bigger than ever and continues to meet the needs of the communities it serves. We would like to welcome these amazing students to our Practicum:

- Sylvie White
- Katie Rose Alexander
- Jordanna MacIntyre
- Cayce Ryan
- Kristin Laxson
- Michelle Cushing
- Maggie Bennett
- Allison Filderman
- Emily Bilderback
- Erin Hendricks

Check out their pictures and bios on our Web site, birthingway.edu/sld.htm.

We would also like to congratulate Georgia Lewis, Helen Hill, and Corinne Friedrich for completing the Practicum and certifying as labor doulas. Thank you so much for all your hard work!

Childbirth Educator Program

Our spring workshop was jammed-packed with wonderful information and enthusiastic students.

We would like to welcome Leah Rupp into our Childbirth Educator Program. Keep up the good work, Leah!

Postpartum Doula Program

Birthingway College of Midwifery's Postpartum Doula Workshop was full of eager students this spring!

A warm welcome to those who recently joined the Practicum!

- Susanne Cook
- Renata Austin
- Calina Brooke
- Catherine Shelton
- Catherine Waxenfelter

If you or someone you know is interested in any of our programs, please check out our website and visit our Facebook page.

Quick Tip

Top 5 Ways to Support a Postpartum Family:

1. Bring food
2. Wash dishes
3. Take the family dog for a walk
4. A quick trip to the grocery store
5. Talk to the family's other children – ask them how they are feeling.

What inspired you to become a teacher?

I've always liked teaching. I think that it's the best way to keep learning. I got my first experience teaching with Womenstrength as a volunteer teaching self-defense to women. That was a great experience because I could work through my nervousness being in front of a group of people. Also, my grandmother was a teacher and my mother is a professor who teaches teachers so I guess it's in my blood. My sister is a teacher as well.

Breastfeeding Center Warmline 503-762-1632

Our Breastfeeding Center is a fabulous resource for families in Portland and the surrounding area. Our phone line and free lactation consultation services provide help for any breastfeeding questions and concerns.

When did you start teaching at Birthingway? What did you teach? What was your background?

I actually don't remember exactly when I started at Birthingway so you can tell it's been a little while. I remember that I was pregnant with Asha so it was at least 10 years ago. I started by teaching the labor doula workshop which I taught up until last year when I started taking on more of the lactation education classes. I held onto the labor doula class for a while longer than I probably needed to just because I really enjoyed teaching it.

How have you and your teaching style changed since you began at Birthingway?

I've changed myself quite a bit in that I became a mother of 3 over the course of my time at Birthingway, and of course, I sat for my IBCLC a couple of years ago so my career outside Birthingway has also changed.

My teaching style has always been as kinesthetic as I can make it as that is how I learn best, so group activities, changing rooms, mixing it up are things I focus on in every class. I also still emphasize thinking for yourself, critical thinking, following your instincts because my students are going to be out there in the field making judgment calls, and I want them to have practice on how to do that from the get-go.

Over time, I think that my teaching style has changed as my understanding of the biodynamic model has deepened. I also am way into sharing the latest research findings with my students and exploring where to go when they have questions.

Interested in applying for the Lactation program in 2012? Applications deadline is December 1, 2011.

If you have questions, please email Stacey at Stacey@birthingway.edu or check our Web site at www.birthingway.edu

What are you teaching now?

This quarter, I am just finished Pregnancy & Breastfeeding which was a brand new course that I really enjoyed. I am teaching Breastfeeding I and III, too, and enjoying getting to know the students and having a lot of fun.

We are excited about the new Associates Degree in Lactation Consultation. Will you share your thoughts on teaching future lactation consultants?

The field of lactation is so interesting to me because it's a lost art that we are learning more and more about. So the research that is coming out is new and fascinating. The most up to date theories on things like latch are actually very biodynamic in that they emphasize the hormonal connections between mom and babe and facilitate their innate abilities. I am excited for students in the lactation program to graduate from here and know things that most IBCLCs don't really know yet or aren't really practicing.

What words of wisdom can you share with new or current students?

Have as much fun learning as you possibly can, remember that it's OK to be a beginner and don't be too hard on yourself. Beginners have the strength of having open minds and fresh, loving hearts and that is huge.

Thank
You

Donation Thank yous!

We are so grateful for all the wonderful donations we receive on a regular basis. All of the donations help provide our students with a quality education.

Kathryn Constant, our fabulous Librarian, donated art and food supplies to the school.

Extension student Jess Elliott donated swabs.

Calina Brooke, second year student, donated kitchen implements, bake ware, crock pot, and a food processor.

Without these donations, we would not be where we are today. We are a 501c3 and all donations are tax deductible.

If you have anything you would like to donate, please contact the College at 503-760-3131 or info@birthingway.edu.

Calling all Creative Birthingway Community Members!

Birthingway's 20th anniversary is March 2013!

We're looking for ideas for a theme for our anniversary celebration, something inspirational that reflects Birthingway's values and culture. The theme will be used on our 20th year anniversary poster, fliers, invitation and other celebration materials.

We want to showcase amazing birth art from artists in our community, to celebrate biodynamic birth, and honor the sacred practice of all fields in the midwifery arts and sciences. We're planning an exhibit of midwifery and other related art in conjunction with our anniversary celebration.

Clay, popsicle stick sculpture, water color, stencil, papermache, photography.... we would love to see it all!

If you would like to submit artwork or find out more about this opportunity, please contact Jena Novotny, Outreach Coordinator, at 503-760-3131 or jena@birthingway.edu
